

Experience Is Important

Experience is important. The more you have, the better off you'll be. Throughout my college career, I was never truly satisfied with how much knowledge I was actually gaining from my courses. I've always had this lingering question of, "How will this help prepare me for my career after college?" I soon found Scholarbiz, and this platform answered my question from the get-go.

Scholarbiz gave me the ability to work on projects for multiple businesses, giving me the opportunity to establish my name, gain practical work experience that just simply isn't available in your everyday college classroom, and overall gave me a leg-up on my competition. Completing projects and getting positive feedback from my employers on these projects gave me hope and self-confidence in joining the workforce. With these completed projects on my resume, I was hired for a Marketing internship position. They saw what I had done for other employers in the past, recognized that I had a lot of experience that was needed for the position, and took kindly to what I could provide for them. Without Scholarbiz, I wouldn't be able to have the practical work experience to get the position that I have today.
